On the World Peace and Disarmament Conference

Even at this late date the number of delegates is not certain. The fact that Homer Jack of SANE Nuclear Policy Committee warned against the Conference on the day after the ad appeared in the N.Y. Times had a discouraging effect. Then the statement issued by Norman Thomas and [redacted] of "Turn Toward Peace" against the Conference this past week may also create some difficulties. Some persons especially among the women have debated attendance back and forth, partly because of some of these local pressures - and undoubtedly even stronger pressures have been made. b6 b7C

One other factor applies to some of the women who have a responsibility to attend the International Conference of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom - which will be held during the same July dates in California.

Finally, it must also be said that some of us did not do all that we should have done and could have done to guarantee greater attendance - regardless of various difficulties. This also means that the delegation is lacking in certain politically advanced forces. Some of us cannot use passports and some have been virtually denied passports under the McCarran Act - but that is not the full barrier.

Three persons will attend as observers from SANE, but in view of the Homer Jack statement, their observations may not be so objective. These three are:

> Homer Jack - a clergyman who is the most important functioning person in SANE.
> Eric Fromm - a writer and lecturer, who has also an independent position - somewhat influenced by a psychoanalysis point of view, and more so from a Social-Democrat viewpoint. His writings on Berlin have called for a new approach by U.S.A. on the basis of no war over Berlin, etc.
> Stewart Meachem - of the American Friends Service Committee - is an important secretary with responsibility for international affairs among the Quakers. He is the key associate of Clarence Pickett. Meachem's contacts extend in the labor movement as well as among the pacifist forces of this country. He is well respected.

Each of these men have expressed sharp differences with the Soviet Union and have different estimates of the S.U. and socialism - but they also have differences among themselves. They have possibly an even more negative attitude toward the Communist Party, and have somewhat of a phobia against Communists. In spite of all these differences, they are to be regarded as peace advocates on the American scene.

The best part of the delegation will be from California - and this gives some hope for a more serious follow-up organizationally in this country.

From Northern Calif - a total of 16 are expected in the delegation - mostly as observers. The most prominent is:

Carleton Goodlett, publisher and owner of the "Sun Reporter" - the leading Negro newspaper of Northern California. He is also state co-chairman of the Negro Leadership Conference of California.

The former editor of his paper is now working in the White House, on President Kennedy's staff. Goodlett thus has relationships into a wide circle of people.

He is a medical doctor by profession.

He was at the planning conference of the World Peace Council at Stockholm and was much impressed. He is now attending the Peace Conference in Ghana

Rev. Haines of the largest and most successful Baptist Church in San Francisco area, is important force among church leaders. He is associated with Dr. Goodlett and at the present time is at the Peace Conference in Ghana. He is rather conservative politically but has a wide influence.

Vivian Hallinan, wife of Vincent Hallinan, is active in "Women for Peace," has a wide group of friends and contacts, and works ever more closely with the C.P., meets regularly with Party leaders. And while the Hallinans have always been independent, their attitude on the S.U. is healthy and positive from all recent reports. Vivian Hallinan can be very helpful when she comes back to California in any work for the World Peace Council. She may want to discuss a memo on a special appeal to the American people. I am enclosing copy of a memo - really only a few brief notes - which indicates an approach to this. This is being sent to Vivian Hallinan who is ~~straykn~~ staying at Konni Zilliacus house in London until July 5 or 7.

[redacted] whose husband is a well-known labor leader. She is active in the women's peace movement and can help to promote the World Peace Council program. She is an effective organizer. b6 b7C

[redacted] is on the editorial board of "The Liberal Democrat," and an active leader in Democratic Party clubs. Some time ago, he visited Cuba and was much impressed. He is an effective organizer and is possible for a continuation committee in the San Francisco area.

Holland Roberts - who needs no introduction - expected tobe in New York this past week end, but had to change his plans so we were not able to get together. The notes of this memo reflect a discussion with others from Northern California - who feel that the work in San Francisco would be greatly improved by a committee around Holland Roberts after the Conference. That is why the emphasis is put on Vivian Hallinan, [redacted] and [redacted]

Also we had intended to discuss the memo with Holland Roberts but since we did not make contact we decided to mail it to Vivian Hallinan. I'm sure Holland Roberts will welcome all cooperation from Hallinan, [redacted] and others.

[redacted] - has possibly already arrived in Moscow. He is the most reliable political person in the delegation along with Holland Roberts. For more than 25 years, [redacted] has been active in Communist Party work and should be consulted on all problems of the delegates from Northern California. He is possibly more objective and flexible in relations with the other delegates - bearing in mind the different political status of all the other delegates.

Bob Truenaft - is a writer, as is also his wife. He was in C.P., and now is friendly. He has a limited view of the World Peace Council - but can be very helpful.

[redacted] - is active in Student Women for Peace at the Unif. of Calif. and is the Northern Calif. organizer for the Youth Festival Com. She comes as an observer from the Student Women for Peace.

From Southern Calif.

Rev. Stewart Innerst is the most important and respected person in the Southern Calif. delegation of 11 persons. He is active in "Turn Toward Peace," and the "Friends (Quakers) Service Committee on Legislation." He is a retired clergyman, possibly around 70 years of age, and involved in all peace activities. He will also want to travel.

Pauline Shindler - was in C.P., now friendly. Active in Unitarian Church. Retired.

[redacted] is a journalist, who is chairman of "Fair Play to Cuba Committee." He came to U.S.A. from Germany in 1939, and has expressed the desire to travel in Eastern Europe and Germany. Active in Unitarian Church.

I don't have the names of others, but these are the core of the delegation form Los Angeles. None of the delegates are at present members of the C.P.

From Wisconsin:

[redacted] - are students at Wisconsin Univ. who come from Chicago. Verly close to C.P. and expect to join CP next fall. b6 b7C

From Detroit Mich:

[redacted] is active in "Women's Strike for Peace" and [redacted] is active in SANE. b6 b7C

[redacted] is delegate from Student Peace Union. She is C.P. and [redacted] is one of leading U.S.A. Communists who served 5 years in prison along with [redacted] and [redacted]. [redacted] attended 81 Party Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Boris Ourlicht - both active in Peace movement in Detroit and with C.P. - but are not public or openly known as such

One or two additional are expected from Women's Strike for Peace in Ann Arbor, Mich.

From Massachusetts

Florence Luscomb, active in many pacifist and Quaker activities, walked from Boston to Washington, writer and lecturer, and participates in many movements, cooperates with C.P. leaders.

Others

I understand that Women Strike for Peace have 2 persons at Ghana who are going to Moscow and that 12 others plan to be in S.U. at time of Conference at invitation of Soviet Women.

There are also some reports of others, but not certain.

I assume that Holland Roberts has additional information.

Peace Advocates Agree On 2 Congresses for 1962

(Special to The Worker) INDEXED

STOCKHOLM—Differences of viewpoint were ironed out and preparations for two major congresses of peace advocates were set in motion at the three-day session of the World Peace Council here. A world congress seeking general disarmament will be convened in mid-1962, and a three-continent congress to support national liberation struggles will be organized by anti-imperialist forces in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Agreement on this plan followed clashes of viewpoint during which speakers considered the relative primacy of the disarmament struggle and the national liberation struggle. The issue was resolved in the commissions, which drew up resolutions that were adopted by the plenary session.

The resolutions emphasized that general disarmament is now the number one task of all peace advocates, that delay in resolving the German question increases the nuclear war menace "with each passing day," and that the mounting struggle for national independence cannot be separated from the struggle for disarmament, inasmuch as the colonial peoples and the peoples of dependent and underdeveloped countries demand the dismantling of military bases and withdrawal of occupation armies on their territories, the abrogation of military pacts and renunciation of nuclear armament plans.

DELEGATE OF GUINEA

Guinea's delegate, Saidou Diallo, argued for the priority of the struggle against colonialism. "Some say that the main content of our epoch is disarmament," Diallo declared. "I say that the main content of our epoch is anti-imperialism, anti-colonialism, and anti-racial discrimination. I cannot understand any separation of the questions of peace, freedom and independence.

"We are under the armed enslavement and persecution of imperialism and colonialism. We want arms. We cannot stand idly by when bombs are dropped on us.

"We should arouse the masses of people to rise and struggle for peace, freedom and independence and not to struggle for pacifism."

Diallo urged the council "not to subject the important questions to grades. Disarmament definitely should not be listed as the most important question. Those whom we regarded yesterday as backward have now grown up. They are free from inferiority complexes. They have contributed to the cause of peace."

U.S. MARCHES

Speaking on behalf of American peace advocates, delegate Isacsen reported on the peace marches in the United States. He declared that it would be incorrect to ignore the great number of pacifist groups who are participating in the fight against world war, and asserted that these could be enlisted in the struggle for peace.

On behalf of eight Latin American delegations, Mrs. Poblete of Chile noted that the questions of West Berlin, arms race, war propaganda and suppression of the national liberation movements by imperialism were all pressing questions calling for solution.

Cuban delegate Marta Fráyde, delivering greetings from Cuban President Dorticos, expressed the hope that the council would contribute to the struggle for realization of disarmament, the abolition of colonialism, and the struggle for national independence.

CHINESE DELEGATE

China's delegate Liao Chengchih, appealng for the strengthening of unity of the socialist countries of the national liberation movement and the fighters against imperialism and war in all countries of the world, proposed two tactics in the struggle against imperialism.

"One is that we should negotiate.

"The other is that we must mobilize the masses and engage in all kinds of tit-for-tat struggles against imperialism," declared Liao.

The Chinese peace leader said the workers, peasants and oppressed nations are the basic forces of the peace movement, which must rely on these forces and reflect the demands of the masses.

He declared that the combined efforts of the socialist countries, the national liberation movement, the international workers' movement and the peace movement can prevent a world war.

SOVIET WRITER

The Soviet writer Alexander Korneichuk called for more active participation of all peace champions in the struggle for general controlled disarmament which "constitutes the most important question of our time."

He called for pressure to achieve agreement on ending nuclear weapons tests, and emphasized the necessity of the support of establishment of nuclear-free zones, disengagement of the armed forces of NATO and the Warsaw Treaty member states and conclusion of a non-aggression pact between those two groups of countries.

Professor John Bernal, World Peace Council chairman, noted successes scored by the peace movement in recent months.

He said that even in the United States, despite the "rampage of racism and McCarthyism" and the persecution of peace champions, activity supporting peace increased, although it, "is still spontaneous."

He said the goals and tasks of the national liberation movement and the peace movement are closely linked.

Bernal said that NATO is implementing a new "nuclear strategy" — plans for building atomic shelters in the NATO member countries and propaganda to prove that these shelters are "blast-proof" and offer a chance of survival in the event of a nuclear war.

WEST GERMANY

He declared West German militarism and the growing influence of West Germany in the NATO system is creating a dangerous situation for the world and is one of the most important problems of our time.

Solution of this question, will help to relax international tension and make disarmament possible. Other speakers included Velio Spano of Italy, Emanuel Dastier of France, Hoang Muoi of Democratic Vietnam, Osende Afana of the Cameroons, Vongvichit of Laos, Kaoru Yasui of Japan, D'Luski of Poland, Helen Kay of Britain, Aziz Sherif of Iraq, and Goetting of Democratic Germany.

COUNCIL VOTES DOWN CHINESE MOVE TO STRESSS NATIONAL LIBERATION

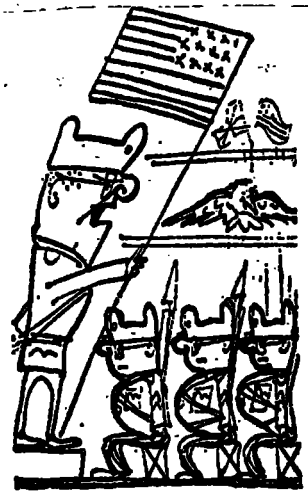
World congress for disarmament set this year

By Gordon Schaffer
Guardian staff correspondent

STOCKHOLM

A WORLD CONGRESS for Disarmament and Peace is to be called in 1962 by the World Council of Peace. A resolution adopted by a meeting of the Council in Stockholm, said the Congress would seek to bring into action "the millions of men and women in all countries who, despite differences of social system, consider general, complete and controlled disarmament to be their universal objective." Many delegates underlined the high hopes raised by the appointment of a UN disarmament commission of 18 nations. It was clear that the Soviet delegates attached the greatest importance to this action.

But a warning also emerged from this world assembly: Time will not wait. The feeling that the Western powers have no serious intention of disarming has gained ground. The Chinese expressed the opinion in public session that the main force to check the war danger is the struggle of the colonial and semi-colonial peoples. The controversy was so sharp that at the final public session for the first time, an issue was taken to a vote. A Chinese motion to include national liberation as one of the objectives of the 1962 Congress was defeated, 163 to 24.



Dyad in the London Daily Worker
"Before dismissing, repeat 50 times . . . East Germany and China do not exist."

The vote indicated the Council's desire to stress the urgency of disarmament and the need for a link with the movements in the West. The Council demonstrated its concern for the national liberation movements by recording its support for a conference of three continents—Asia, Africa and Latin America also to be held in 1962.

On this question, Mrs. Janet Jagan, the wife of premier of British Guiana, who came as a visitor, said that $60 billion spent over 10 years would raise the underdeveloped countries to a reasonable standard. This figure compared with $90 billion a year spent by the world's nations on armaments.

CUBA AND GERMANY: There were sharp warnings from Cuban and other delegates from Latin America that another invasion of Cuba was being prepared. The Council adopted a resolution calling for activity in all countries in support of Cuba during the conference of foreign ministers by the Organization of American States beginning Jan. 22.

A resolution on Germany said the situation "is all the more dangerous because power in the German Federal Republic is wielded by the economic and military forces responsible for the last war."

Prof. J. D. Bernal, chairman of the Presidential Committee of the Council, summed up for this reporter:

"The first activity of the Council was the Stockholm appeal against atomic weapons. Today we can say that the overwhelming support given by the UN to the demand for the outlawing of nuclear weapons has marked the victory of that idea. Now we must go forward to see that it is realized in practice and the popular activity around the Congress for general disarmament and peace will be one of the ways of pressing our demands."

Prof. Bernal described the new movement of the women in the U.S. for peace as "one of the most encouraging developments of our time."

MEETING AT MOSCOW

2,000 due at peace talks

ABOUT 2,000 DELEGATES and observers from 90 countries are expected in Moscow July 9-14, at the World Congress for General Disarmament and Peace, sponsored by the World Peace Council. Preparations for the conference have emphasized the inclusion of widely varying views on how to achieve peace and on where the responsibilities for world tensions lies. Sponsors include many eminent world figures.

Organization of the congress was turned over to a special committee, on which a majority was non-communist peace advocates. At its first meeting in Eskilstuna, Sweden, May 19-20, the committee developed an agenda for discussion on all aspects of disarmament and expanded its efforts to enlist delegates and observers of varying views. Despite this, the conference has been labeled "communist" by right-wing Labor Party leaders in Britain and by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

1950 APPEAL: In 1950, the World Peace Council initiated a world-wide petition for the abolition of nuclear weapons, known as the Stockholm Appeal. Tens of millions signed, including about 1 million in the U.S. That petition has since become UN policy.

In explaining the choice of Moscow as a site for the congress, Dr. J. D. Bernal, British scientist and chairman of the WPC presidential committee, said: "We thought it a good idea to have such a congress in the capital of one of the nuclear powers . . . I hope we shall have our next congress in Washington."

A list of the congress sponsors reads like Who's Who. From Britain it includes Lord Bertrand Russell, Lord Boyd-Orr, Sir Compton Mackenzie, Canon L. John Collins, Baroness Wooton, Lord Chorley and writers Sean O'Casey and Somerset Maugham. From France, Pablo Picasso, Jean-Paul Sartre, Jacques Mitterand, Pastor Casalis, Gen. P. Billotte and Alan Resnais.

Italian sponsors include cultural figures Carlo Levi, Cesare Zavattini, Giuseppe de Santis and Renato Guttuso, as well as Ettore Tibaldi, vice president of the Italian Senate, and Agostino Novella, general secretary of the Italian General Confederation of Labor. Some other European sponsors are Pastor Martin Niemoller, Emil Graf von Wedel, Dr. Hans Thirring, Joris Ivens, Oscar Lange, Leopold Infield, Dimitri Shostakovich, Mikhail Sholokhov and A. Korneichuk.

Asian and African sponsors include Mrs. Rameshwari Nehru, Sayten Bose, Satyajit Ray, Kaoru Yasui and Ogina Odinga.

In a letter to the council explaining why he could not attend, Dr. Albert Schweitzer said: "In my heart I will be with you. The world must know that the effort for peace goes on and that the fight becomes more and more intense. The people all over the world must know that this movement exists and that it goes on fighting for peace in order to create a public opinion which will make is possible to realize peace."

BRITISH CLASH: In London, the Labor Party's deputy leader George Brown discovered the World Peace Council on a list of organizations proscribed for Labor members. On his initiative the party executive committee summoned Russell, Chorley, Lady Wooton and Canon Collins to explain their sponsorship of the conference.

Russell called the summons "a gross impertinence." He added: "I suggest that Mr. Gaitskell and Mr. Brown appear before me and explain their support of atmospheric tests and their support of Polaris in blatant defiance of the conference decisions of the party they are misleading."

Canon Collins said he was not a member of the WPC but had sponsored the congress because he wanted an independent Western point of view presented.

The party's executive committee may move to expel the four peace leaders. But an indication that such a move would not sit well with other Laborites came when 30 Labor MPs gave Russell a lunch at the House of Commons in honor of his 90th birthday, two days after Brown had denounced him.

SANE'S STAND: Reaction to the congress from some U.S. peace groups was also less than sympathetic. A large advertisement appeared in the New York Times on June 8, inviting "all American organizations concerned with the world effort to achieve disarmament" to send representatives to the congress. The next day the National Committee of SANE announced that it was refusing to send delegates because the World Peace Council was a communist organization.

SANE executive director Dr. Homer A. Jack said that Soviet and communist-related peace groups "did not criticize Russia for the resumption of Soviet tests in September, 1961," but condemned U.S. tests. U.S. peace groups, he said, were free to criticize their own government.

Jack and others from the SANE board are reported to be planning to attend the Moscow congress "as individuals," to present their views without endorsing the conference. About 20 other Americans are also expected to attend as delegates and observers.

Boycotting Peace Group

SANE Explains Its Refusal to Send Delegates to Moscow Council

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In his letter to The New York Times published June 25 regarding SANE'S refusal to send delegates to the Moscow conference of the World Council for Peace, Dr. Linus Pauling misses the main point. Not only the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, but Turn Toward Peace, the American Friends Service Committee, the Committee for Non-Violent Action, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, the Fellowship of Reconciliation and other American citizen groups have declined the same invitation, as a result of bitter experience.

They are unwilling to take official part in a conference called by a government-dominated organization of the Soviet bloc that makes excuses for the misdeeds of the Soviet Government. The World Council for Peace, for instance, was unable to criticize the resumption of nuclear tests by the Soviet Union. Unlike American peace groups and others abroad, the W. C. P. is a sounding board for Soviet policy, rather than being a free and independent agent able to criticize or to praise all governments alike for their actions.

To Present Statement

As a matter of fact, a group of Americans from the peace groups in the United States, representing no one but themselves, has sought and received permission to present to a plenary session of the Moscow congress a hard-hitting statement on the failures of policy on the part of both nuclear blocs, and a critique of the World Council for Peace. The group includes Dr. Homer A. Jack and Dr. Erich Fromm. They will otherwise take no part in the proceedings or resolutions of the conference.

A more hopeful setting for East-West exchange on issues of war and peace will be the Second London Conference this fall called by individuals from SANE, Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, the Soviet Peace Committee and other groups who will engage in direct and extended dialogue. The First London Conference resulted in a declaration scoring the resumption of tests by all nations, which the Soviet delegates signed.

Program-Director, National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

U.S. May Soften Its 'No Cheating' Stand on A-Tests

The Aim: Lure the Soviets Into a Test Ban Treaty —Or Make Them Squirm

The United States is preparing to offer Russia sweeping concessions to get around Moscow's objections to an agreement banning further nuclear tests.

Whether this will lure the Soviets into a pact is highly uncertain. But American strategists figure the maneuver will at least put the Russians in a peculiarly embarrassing position.

Here's the deal:

In recent nuclear tests in Nevada, American scientists have found that underground atomic blasts can be detected a lot easier than they had at first supposed. Knowing this, American negotiators now are prepared to ease up on their demands for strict inspection of any test ban.

This is the key point on which disarmament talks at Geneva, Switzerland, have long been snagged. The Americans have insisted on a minimum number of inspection posts inside Russia as well as on-the-spot checks of suspicious explosions on Soviet territory to guarantee against cheating. The Russians have maintained that such demands represented nothing more than spying attempts in the Soviet Union.

Now, say the Americans, they might be willing to settle for far less than the 19 control posts originally considered necessary inside Russia. And they figure they may need only three to eight "on site" inspection forays a year instead of the 12 to 20 formerly considered necessary.

The plan, as it now shapes up, is to offer concessions on these points when the Geneva talks resume again this week after a month's recess. If the Russians balk again—as is likely—American strategists hope to score some propaganda points. They can argue, and undoubtedly will, that the Soviets really do not want a test ban at all.

A hint that the Russians already are anticipating the American move and are preparing to counter it came in an official statement published last week by Tass, the Soviet news agency. It argued that Russia has a right to conduct one more round of tests, in light of the current series being carried out by the United States in the Pacific.

The United States began nuclear testing many years ahead of Russia, reasoned Tass, and "not only ethics and law but also the interests of universal peace and security demand that the Soviet Union should be the last to conduct nuclear weapons tests."

PRO-RED UNIT FORCED TO PROLONG MEETING

Special to The New York Times

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 29.—The decision to dismantle missile bases in Cuba resulted in prolonging a meeting of the presidium of the Communist-dominated World Peace Council into today.

The members, including Ilya Ehrenburg, Soviet author, and Academician Yossitao Hirano of the Science Council of Japan, had expected to adjourn the three-day meeting yesterday afternoon. But Premier Khrushchev's decision unexpectedly forced them to do additional work on their resolution on Cuba.

According to Mr. Hirano, a leader of a Japanese ban-the-bomb movement, work on the resolution continued past midnight. Some of the 19 presidium members and the 20 observers had already started for home hours before.

"Those who stand for peace must not drop their guard," the presidium finally resolved, according to Mr. Hirano. He said the resolution called for "all discriminatory measures against Cuba to be removed."

It demanded also that Cuba be assured "the right to choose its own way of life, its own foreign policy and its own means of defense."

No word of the prolonged session appeared today in Stockholm's Communist newspaper.

ReBulet to NY 6/25/63.

Pursuant to instructions set forth in relet, the NYO conducted the following investigation in an effort to identify "Paxinstitu," referred to in relet as a probable cable address:

Files of the NYO contain no reference to "Paxinstitu" or "Peace Institute."

Review of current NYC telephone directories and address directories contain no reference to "Paxinstitu." In addition, the above directories contain no reference to the Peace Institute, 225 Broadway, NYC, referred to in relet.

The following confidential informants, all of whom have furnished reliable information in the past, and all of whom are familiar with various phases of Communist Party (CP) activity in the NYC area, advised during July, 1963, that they had no information regarding Paxinstitu or Peace Institute:

[redacted] [redacted] b7D

In addition, [redacted] who has furnished reliable information in the past, and who is very familiar with communications media, advised on 7/15/63, that "Paxinstitu" is not a cable address in NYC.

The following were contacted regarding Paxinstitu and Peace Institute and all advised they were unable to locate any record of either:

World Peace Council sets a 'Vietnam week'

THE PRESIDENTIAL Committee of the World Council of Peace, meeting in special session in Stockholm April 24-25, urged peace groups throughout the world to set aside the week of May 23-30 as a "week of action for the people of Vietnam."

The two-day committee session was called to voice support for the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front and to consider methods of preventing the Vietnamese war from escalating into a world-wide conflict. In a resolution, the committee described the civil war in South Vietnam as "a justified struggle conforming to the fundamental principles of the right of all peoples to self-determination and to wage a patriotic war against foreign aggression."

Noting that the WCP "has always supported the just struggle of the South Vietnamese people," the resolution declared that the council "will continue to support this struggle in a more vigorous way."

Attending the meeting were members and representatives of the Presidential Committee from 17 nations, including the U.S.S.R. and China; persons designated as "permanent invitees," including Dr. Carlton Goodlett from the U.S.; peace committee representatives from North and South Vietnam, and a number of observers, including A. J. Muste of the U.S. national chairman of the CNVA.

PROFESSOR J. D. Bernal of Britain, chairman of the Presidential Committee, said in an opening address that "this may be the most important session" of the committee ever held, occurring as it did "at a time of international crisis of very serious character." Acknowledging that "difficulties and disagreements have hampered our work" in the past, the noted scientist said it is "absolutely essential" that these differences should not obtain during the present critical period.

"To insist now on the acceptance of any one view as to what can be done about the Vietnam problem is to invite a weakening of the forces which could be rallied together in support of the Vietnamese people," Bernal said. He urged the meeting to "find means of bringing together in an effective way the actions of peace forces of all kinds throughout the world," noting that "we want not so much doctrinal unity, which is unattainable at the present moment, as unity in action."

The peace forces in each different country, he said, must "mobilize activities in favor of the people of Vietnam . . . by ways most effective in each country."

The "international week of action" resolution was intended to implement Bernal's plea for unity in action, regardless of doctrinal divergencies. The project was expected to receive support primarily from peace forces in socialist countries, where the WCP is strongest, rather than in the U.S. where the peace movement in general tends to view the council as "Communist-dominated."

THE STOCKHOLM meeting was one of several held recently in preparation of the council's World Congress for Peace, National Independence and General Disarmament to be convened in Helsinki July 10-17. At a meeting in Brussels April 3-4 it was decided to broaden participation in the congress as much as possible, including representatives of peace groups that do not necessarily endorse the WCP or favor involvement in all of the themes under discussion. It was also agreed that much of the work in Helsinki would be accomplished in smaller commissions devoted to specific topics (such as the war in Vietnam, disarmament, racism, the UN) rather than full plenary sessions, which would be limited in number compared with past meetings.

An attendance of 1,500 is expected at the week-long meeting, including perhaps 60 Americans representing a number of U.S. peace, civil rights and social organizations.

IN AN INTERVIEW in the New York Times after his return to the U.S., Muste was quoted (April 30) as having said that "the Chinese had taken over the council." In another interview in New York's Village Voice, the 80-year-old peace leader was quoted to say that "privately, the Soviet delegates told me they were furious and appalled at the resolution [which was solely concerned with the Vietnam war and support of the NLF], since it represented a rejection of their peaceful co-existence and general and complete disarmament position."

In a talk with the GUARDIAN, Muste said he was misquoted in both instances. The Chinese, he said, had not "taken over" the council but "there is a trend toward that direction." Omitted from the Times report, Muste said in a letter to that newspaper which has not yet been printed, "is reference to my opinion that it is the policy of the U.S. Administration in Southeast Asia, including the bombing of North Vietnam, which is responsible for the hard line which prevailed at the Stockholm meeting."

Referring to the Village Voice quote, Muste said he actually had been making reference to a delegate from Britain, not the U.S.S.R.

AS A BASIS for his interpretation that there was a trend toward Chinese doctrinal domination of the WCP, Muste pointed to "the omission in the resolution to peaceful coexistence and disarmament. That indicated the fact that the Soviet delegates were forced by the course of events — U.S. policy — to exclusive emphasis on support for the NLF rather than peaceful coexistence."

Since the special Presidential Committee meeting was called to discuss the Vietnam situation exclusively, according to sources associated with the WCP, it was consistent for the resolution to confine itself to this topic, and this action does not indicate a "takeover" by either side in the ideological dispute. The Helsinki meeting no doubt will be deeply concerned with the subject of peaceful coexistence, as well as the specific issue of U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

Dear Sir,

The World Council of Peace has asked us to transmit the following:

The press wields an enormous influence on people; it is the main source of information on world events; it has a powerful effect on world public opinion. The great majority of the commercial press has erected a wall of silence between newspaper readers and the world peace movement.

As Professor Linus Pauling said: "The people of the world must now make a decision of far greater portent than any ever made before .... There have been tremendous catastrophes in the past - great floods, terrible plagues, devastating wars; but never before has mankind been faced with the serious possibility of annihilation."

It is just 20 years since the end of the great slaughter of the Second World War. Yet human blood is still being shed on several continents, and every day the possibility of a new conflagration looms in front of us in radio broadcasts, television programmes and newspaper reports, and in the pronouncements of those who are in a position to push the fatal button of nuclear war.

We are sure you will agree that science and technology are making it increasingly possible to build on every continent a life of almost limitless abundance; that mankind more and more accepts the fact that by securing for every nation the unabridged right to plan its own destiny, a solid foundation for constructive co-operation between peoples could be laid and that unless the under-privileged two-thirds of mankind advances towards the standard of living now enjoyed by the highly industrialised countries, the latter's economic wellbeing cannot endure, the era of abundance will remain unrealised, and moral and humanist concepts will not guide our way of life.

Is it possible, just as these truths are becoming self-evident, that war will be permitted to break out - a war that would destroy all that we have, reduce to naught the growing accomplishments of new nations, block the eradication of colonialism, the most shameful chapter in our history, and prevent us from realising the brilliant perspectives now within our grasp?

In this critical situation, the World Council of Peace put forth an idea for a World Congress for Peace, National Independence and General Disarmament. Last April, fifty-two representatives of peace organisations, who met in Brussels at the invitation of the World Council of Peace, have approved a proposal to hold this Congress, 10 - 17 July in Helsinki, and decided that a Preparatory Committee be set up which would convene the Congress and have the powers to define its content and procedure.

The Congress, with its 1500-odd participants representing the will for peace of the overwhelming majority of people on every continent, offers a much-needed opportunity to devise a world-wide plan of action that would make of the still scattered peace forces a power which all governments would have to reckon with, a power that could isolate the pro-war minorities, wherever they may be, and ensure man's uninterrupted advance towards a world of peace and well-being.

We are asking all journals supporting peace, humanism and a better life for all to do their best in popularising the Congress. Your and your readers' experience, points of view and suggestions would help in guaranteeing that the work of the Congress will place in the hands of the peace movement decisive means to attain these objectives.

We will be most grateful to have your opinion on the above. As from 19 May, all correspondence should be addressed to:

Cordially yours,
